

THE REAL
LIFE-STYLE OF CHLOE
CHO

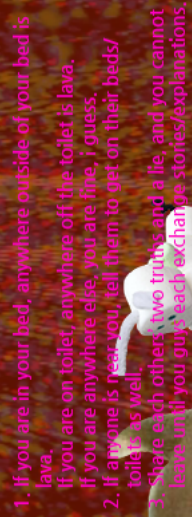

A green cartoon frog with large white eyes and a black pupil is shown from the chest up. It is wearing dark sunglasses. The frog is holding a small, white, rectangular object in its mouth. This object has a bright red light emanating from its center and a small yellow tag attached to it with the number '0' and a red heart. The background is a colorful, abstract pattern of blurred dots in shades of blue, green, yellow, and red.

1. - If it is sunny out, hop three times.
- If it is rainy out, turn in twice two times.
- If it is grey out, cry out loud fakely for thirty seconds.
2. Grab a partner (just anyone you see is also fine)
and ask if he/she/they is down for some action.
3. Play rock paper scissors. If one loses, one has to lie down on the ground.

1. Go out at night.
 2. Look at the moon.

- * if not, here are the instructions.
1. Grab a partner (a stranger is fine).
 2. Ask for the horoscope.
 3. If the horoscope represents a person, grab each others' hands and hop around in a circle.
If the horoscope represents an animal, put arms on each others' shoulders, sway from left to right and howl.

1. If you are in your bed, anywhere outside of your bed is lava.
If you are on toilet, anywhere off the toilet is lava.
If you are anywhere else, you are fine, I guess.
2. If anyone is near you, tell them to get on their beds/toilets as well.
3. Share each other's two trunks and a lie, and you cannot leave until you guys each exchange stories/explanations.

1. Is your average GPA under 2.0?
 2. If so, make a face like a fish and say "Uhh."
 3. Tell them that you have your GPA under custody, and if they don't respect the amount of money that they are giving you, tell them that you are going to make a bozo out of yourself.
 4. If they agree, you managed to be a smart guy.
- Larry Peterson.
5. If they disagree, you are a broose student with good GPA but who eats out of dumpsters.

1. You need a partner for this exercise.
2. Get down on the floor.
3. Hold the feet of the tree, touch the tree.
4. Hold your partner's hand and take your partner's hand.
5. Toss the tree in the air with your partner and shout "tree, tree, tree!"
